An aerial, sepia-toned photograph of a town, likely Schwenksville, Pennsylvania. The image shows a dense cluster of buildings, including houses and larger commercial or industrial structures. A river or stream flows through the lower portion of the town. The overall tone is historical and nostalgic.

Pahkehoma

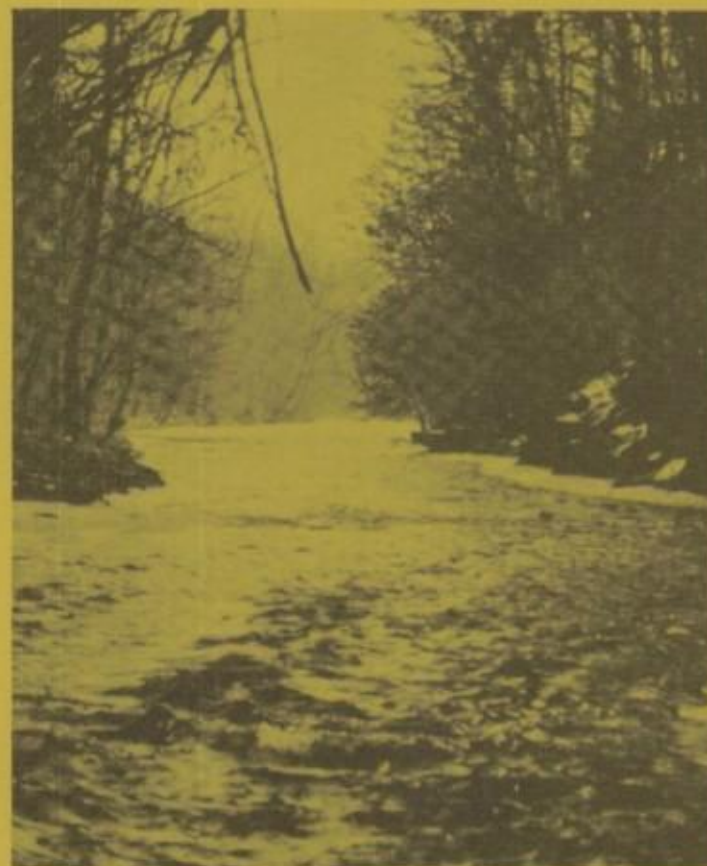

Darkness—thick forests—a turbulent stream. From the West the Indians came—the first inhabitants of the Valley, our Valley. From the West the Indians came—to form their life and very means of existence from the land and from the river, “Pahkehoma” or “where the cranberries grow.” The Unami tribe of Lenni Lenape, as the “original people,” had a significantly favorable relationship with the white man. These people felt like fathers to mankind. Led by one of the greatest of Indian chiefs, “Tamahend” or “Tammany,” these Indians treated the white men as brothers and lived in harmony among them. Eventually, the harmony faded as a result of a great gap between two civilizations in which true understanding was difficult to achieve. Hence the inevitable disappearance of the Lenni Lenape from the land and the river “Pahkehoma.”

... the land and the river

Among the first white settlers in the Valley was Henry Pennypacker, who obtained a land grant in 1702. Within several years, he had established an impressive farm and manor.

Valentine Keely, with his wife and family, arrived from Germany at the beginning of the eighteenth century. In 1728 they developed ground west of the present town.

An adventurous pioneer family arrived from Germany in 1741 and invested in 100 acres of land forming what are now the Frederick Townships. Hans Michael Schwenk worked hard to maintain a prosperous farm, and when he died in 1754, his acreage was deeded to his son, George.

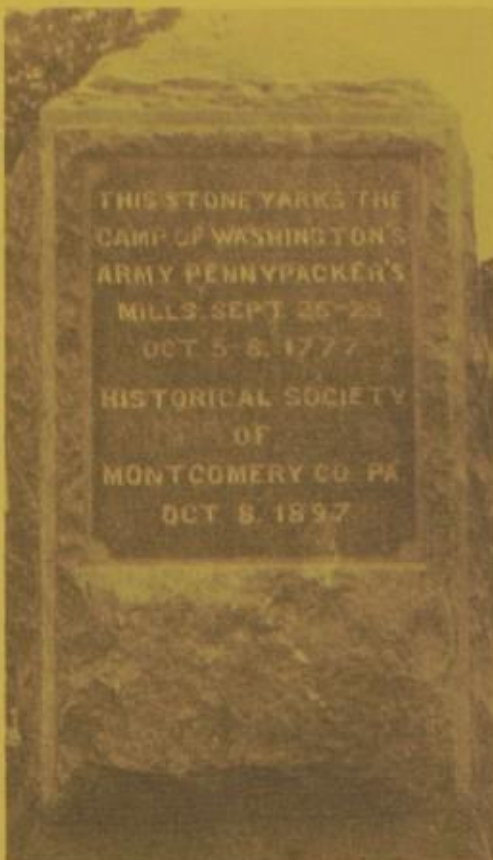

Being a religious man, he willingly donated a large section of his land for the erection of a house of worship for two denominations, a school house to be maintained by a German school, and a burial ground. Several years later, work began on the first log hut to be used as a school. As the result of the labor and supplies donated by various members of the growing community, the project was completed, and in 1762 two fundamentals of life were available—religion and education. Lutheran and Reformed Congregations took advantage of the facilities provided.

Keely's contribution—the first church.

and then . . . the war

And with the war—guns and rolling drums and the sound of marching feet. Continental soldiers found themselves along the banks of the "Pah-kehoma" after retreating from the Battle of Germantown on September 26, 1777. Among the 3,000 men was their fearless leader, George Washington, who set up his headquarters at Pennypacker's mills for nearly two weeks while his troops rested. Keely's school house served as a hospital for Continental soldiers, and many who never recuperated were buried in the woods nearby. On October 8 the army moved on.

"George Washington Slept Here"

Old Schwenk homestead

To the expanding community it became evident that Keely's Church, incorporated under the title, "The German Lutheran Congregation of the Jerusalem Church—Skipack, Montgomery County, in the State of Pennsylvania," was becoming too small for its purpose. Therefore, in 1835 a larger two story stone building was erected across the road from the cemetery. This entire project was accomplished at the cost of $1350 to the congregations. Several years later the two denominations decided to break apart; each constructed fine churches in town that are still in use today.

At last — independence from England and the community began to reach out. In the early 1800's Jacob Schwenk, the great-grandson of the early settler, opened a small store in town. A post office sprang up shortly thereafter, and the town had its first name, "Schwenk's Store."

Work in the "Caladonia Copper Mines", as chartered by two early colonists, began again after the war. Labeled as the second oldest in the country, the mines were worked several times but never proved to be economical. Specimens found, however, resembled those of the Hartz Mountain mines in Germany—a very fine quality.

Jacob Schwenk, now a prominent community citizen, built a hotel around which the town grew. He was recognized as the founder of the town, and a few years later Schwenk was adopted as an appropriate stem for the community name, "Schwenksville." At this point in the development of the town, a second school house was being used to meet the growing demands of the community.

With a puff of smoke and a piercing whistle, the railroad came to the Valley. Operations for railroading began in Collegeville, Rahns, Grater's Ford and, by mistake, in Schwenksville. Originally, plans had not called for a depot to be built in town. However, a shipment of lumber of the type used for railroad station erection arrived, steps were taken, and the project was completed. Too late, the Railroad Company discovered their mistake in delivering the building materials to the wrong location, and the Schwenksville Station went on to be known as the "finest along the road."

and then THEY arrived . . .

Two big hits of the 19th century. The first soda fountain and telephone exchange were installed in Bechtel's Drug Store. Modernization had finally struck.

The excitement of a Sunday train ride

Named for the ford which crossed the turnpike to the Kreator residence, the German settlement of Grater's Ford became noteworthy after the construction of the depot and the iron bridge. A good sized school house was built in the town and used until consolidation took place over 50 years later. A place of prominence was to be found in the Grater's Ford Hotel, in years to follow.

where the action was . . .

Major activity did not begin, however, until the last quarter of the century. A grist mill at the upper end of town developed and improved by the consolidated efforts of several men. With the arrival of Albert Bromer came the town's principal advancement. In the mid-70's he constructed the Industrial Hall, a three story building used for various community activities. The most important project, however, was the men's clothing factory which operated on the first floor. Industrious women were paid 8 cents to put together one vest. Finished clothing was packed and transported to Philadelphia for sale. The hall developed into one of the greatest improvements in the town, employing almost 700 people at one time.

This year marked the charter of the National Bank and Trust Company of Schwenksville, the first bank in the area. The young financial institution was originally housed in a private home until 1877 when a larger building was completed on Main Street. Jacob Schwenk became the first bank president in town with John Prizer being named as cashier.

Extra! Extra! Circulating news of the day to all parts of the area, a four-page, four-column newspaper, the ancestor of the Schwenksville Item, was introduced in 1877. Dr. Nathaniel Gruff, editor, pledged that his paper would be "devoted to local reading matter, moral and religious articles, but without upholding any certain precept."

News Flash! In 1880 noses were counted and the population of Schwenksville was found to be a booming 303.

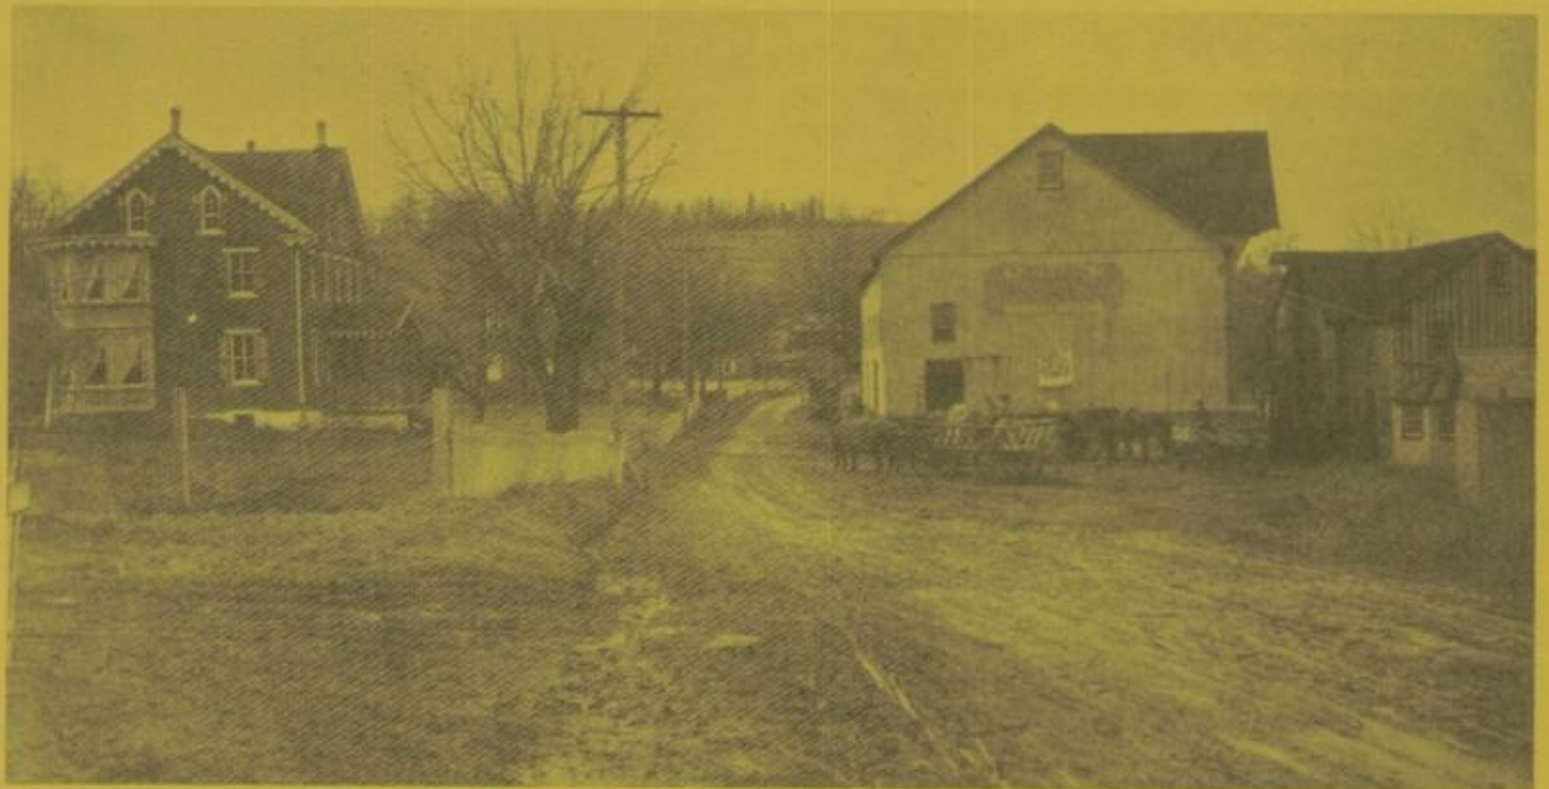

Known for its fine quality of butter, the creamery in Schwenksville was erected at the turn of the century.

"Neither rain, sleet, nor hail . . ."

Definite steps toward town improvement were taken in the latter part of the century. A new and larger post office building was established with better service provided.

The Valley lacked neither social centers nor economic strongholds. Famous for their delightfully cool summer temperature and enjoyable boating facilities, the towns of Delphi and Zieglerville came upon the scene with much to offer the public.

1901
Fredrick Beltz constructed a cigar factory at the lower end of town which soon became a fairly prosperous business. At one time over 200 employees were listed on the payroll.

1919
To honor the soldiers and sailors of the community who participated and gave their lives during World War I, the Valley dedicated a beautiful plot of land along the Perkiomen. Memorial Park was opened in 1919 for picnicking and boating.

1930
The Schwenksville School system can almost claim that the depression was beneficial to its physical plant. Under F. D. R.'s New Deal and CWA Acts for employment opportunity, men were employed to work on an athletic field and outdoor improvement.

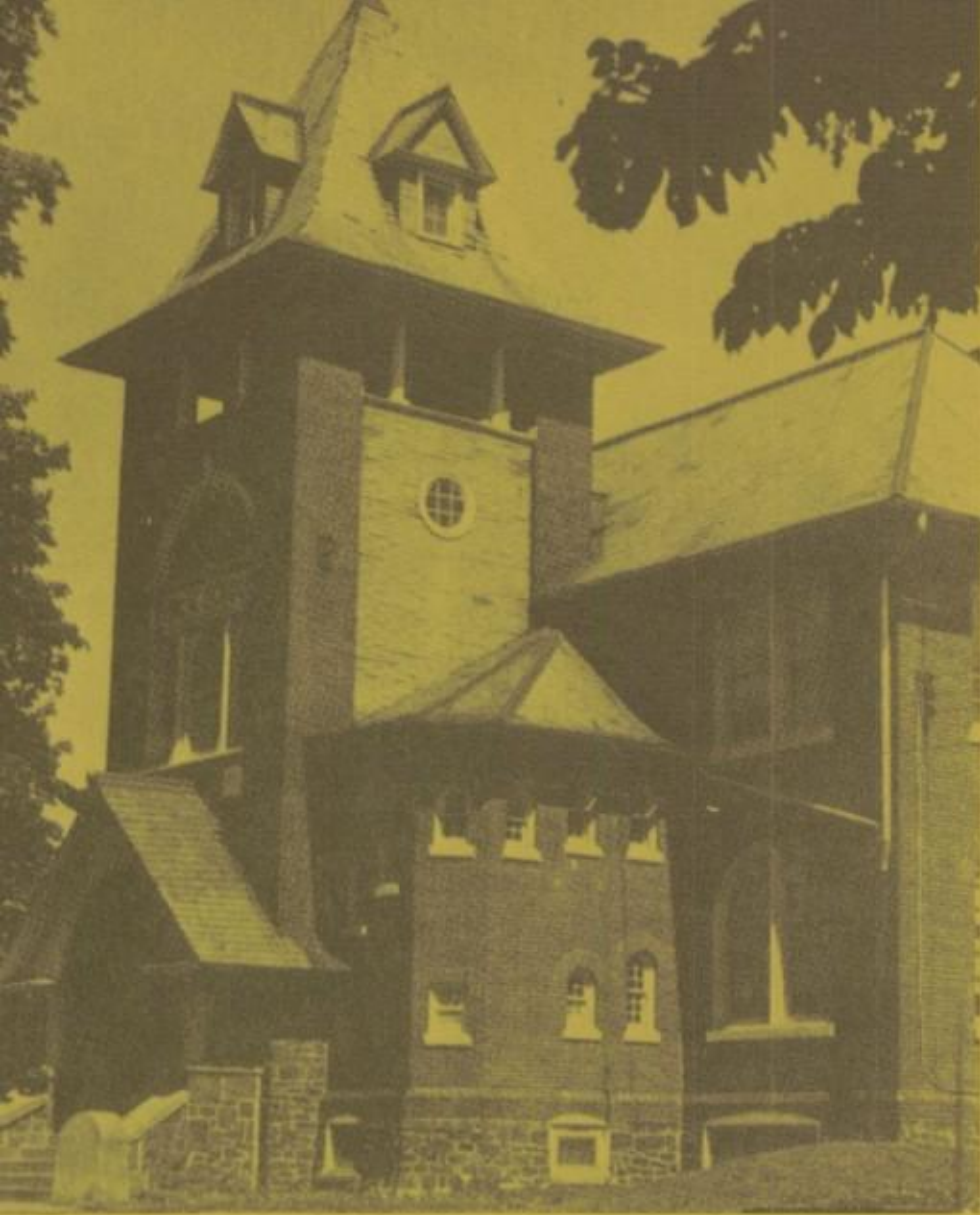

A log hut— our first school

Valentine Keely obtained a plot of land west of the present town of Schwenksville. He decided to draw up a deed for one acre of land to be set aside for a burial ground, a school house, and a church. In 1762, the entire neighborhood contributed toward the building in supplying either labor or material. Finally, at the end of that year, our first school was born.

It was not long before a second school house had been built on South Main Street to meet the growing demands of the community. Constructed in 1849 by Benjamin Pennepacker, this two room stone building was in use for almost 30 years, under the supervision of J. Horace Landis.

In use for a short period of time was another stone building, erected near the site of today's plant. Later, in 1894, the brick structure, which is still in use today, was dedicated, the Benjamin T. Miller Building, because Mr. Miller, a teacher, had been born in a house on the grounds.

Already in 1883, thoughts of consolidation were being formulated. However, it was not until the fall of 1927 when the new building was ready for occupancy; the final combination of Schwenksville Borough, Perkiomen Township and Lower Frederick Township was completed. This structure was named the J. Horace Landis building and dedicated in 1937.

Past to present . . .

Our path through changing times was paved with the concern and sacrifice of the community. Endeavoring to improve itself through the improvement of its young people, the town has ever sought to enrich them with the finest educational and environmental background possible. Although roadblocks have been experienced in our passage through time, this community has never faltered.

For its continual awareness of change with respect to our Journey to Today, we express our deepest gratitude.

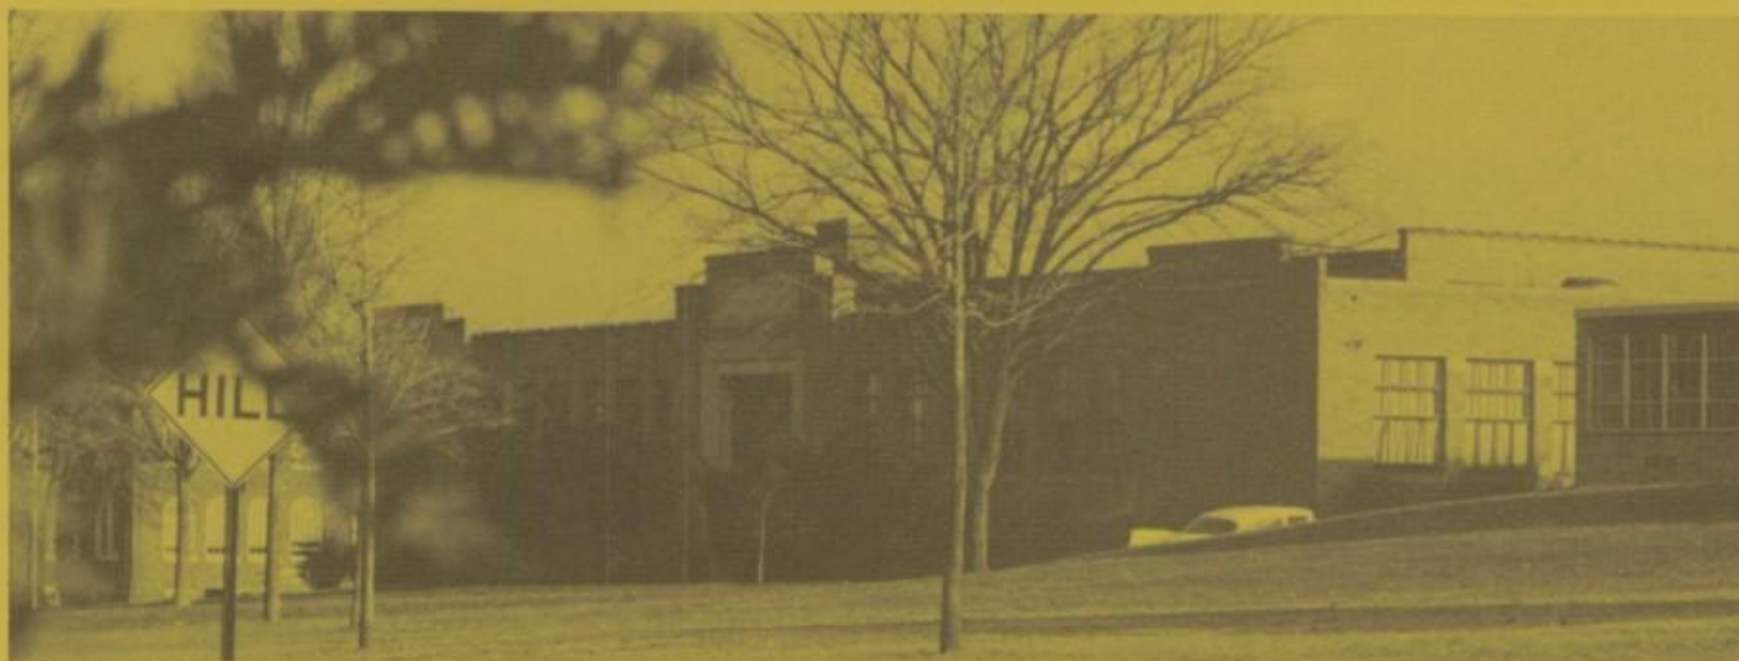

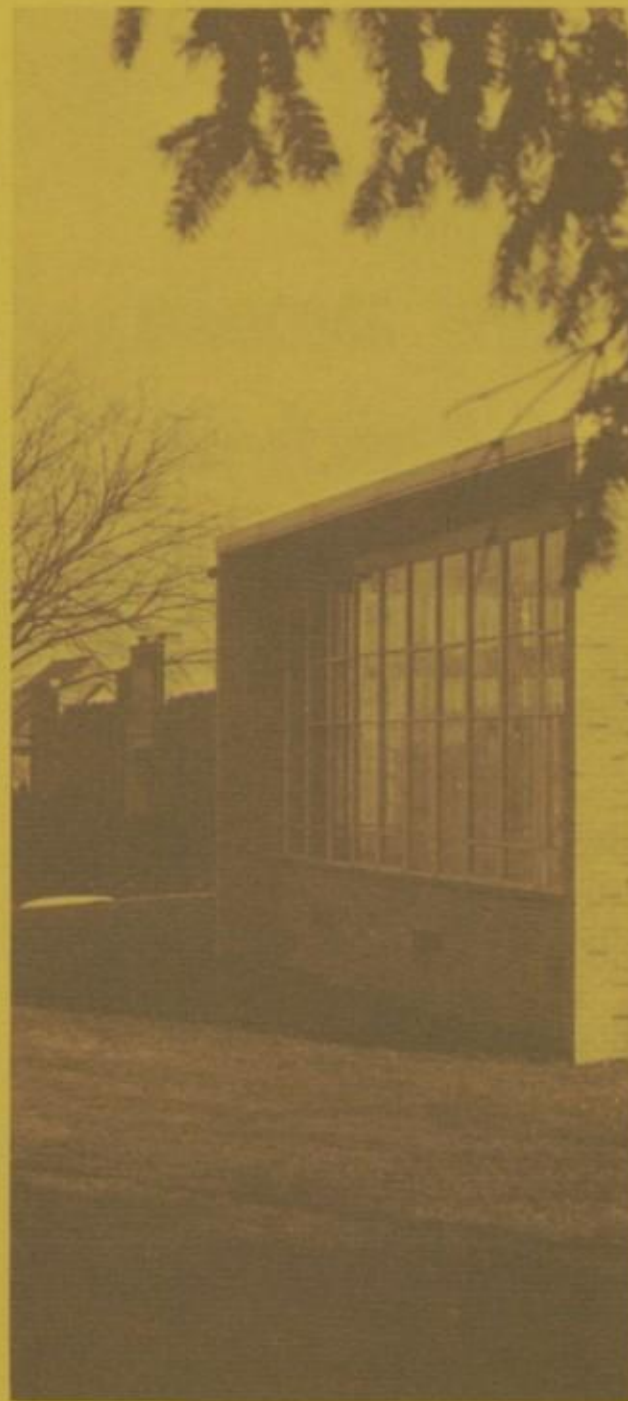

Time,
Change,
Time,
Change,
Our story is a story of time and change.
A story of a journey through changing times.
A story of a Journey to Today.

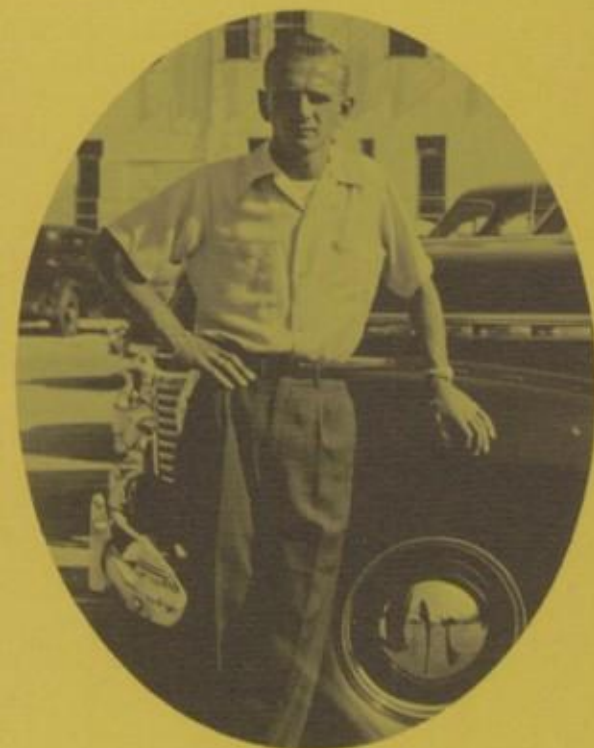

This road of change is a never-ending path; a path we tread to grasp our goals. When these goals are reached, the road has not ended but stretches on— through time. A stream of time which adds not age, but maturity and development. A stream of time where we respect our past, recognize our present, and reach out for the future.

Our future—the road disappears into our future; a future of Change and
Time,
Change and
Time.

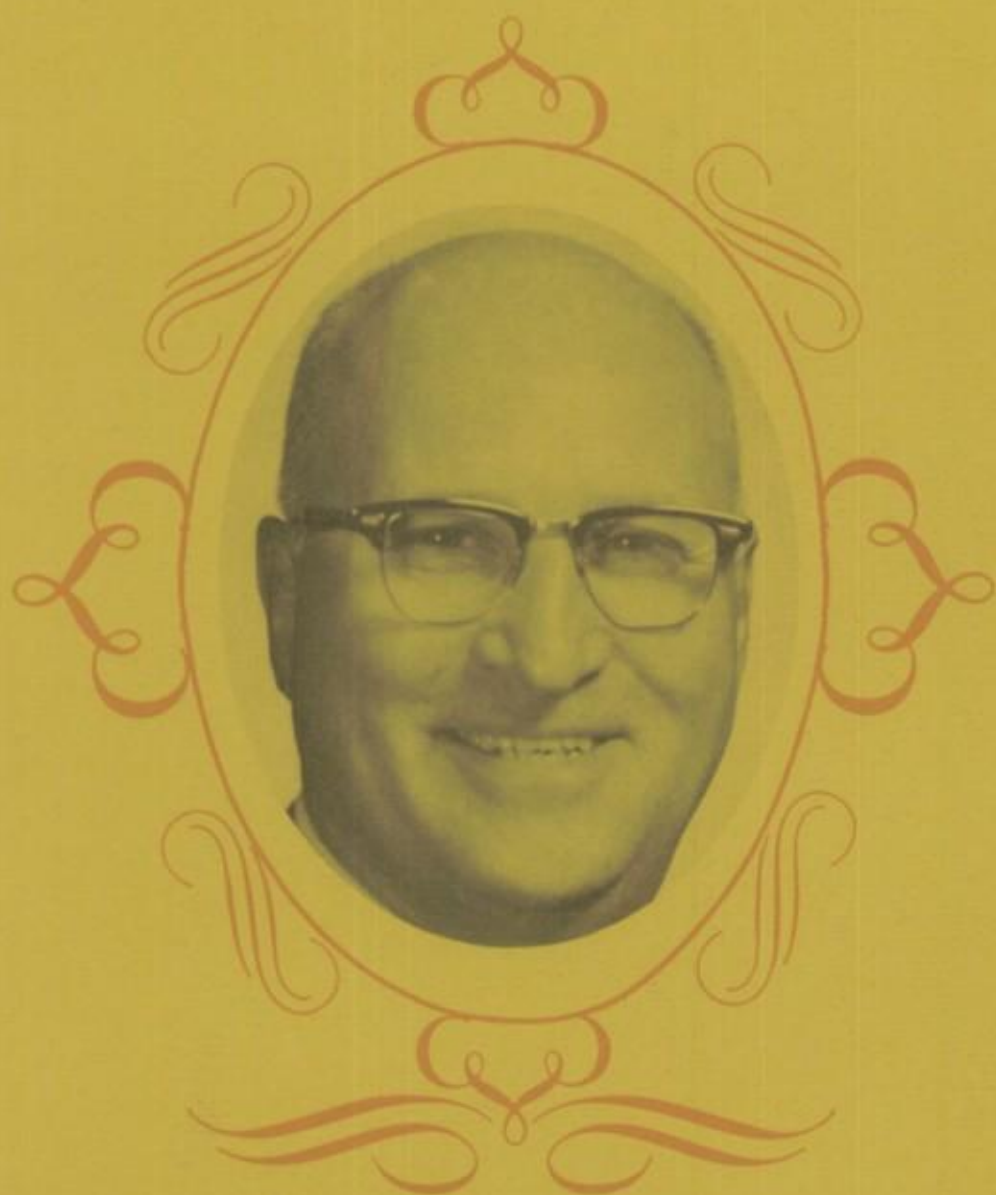

Our journey must go on!

To thank you for your willing aid,
Your jolly laugh, the friends you've made;
Congeniality, your ready smile,
Enthusiasm all the while,
For sales campaigns and marching feet;
Your guidance wise and words discreet;
A helping hand along the way
That guided our Journey to Today.
We dedicate this diary of the years
To you,

hands across the sea

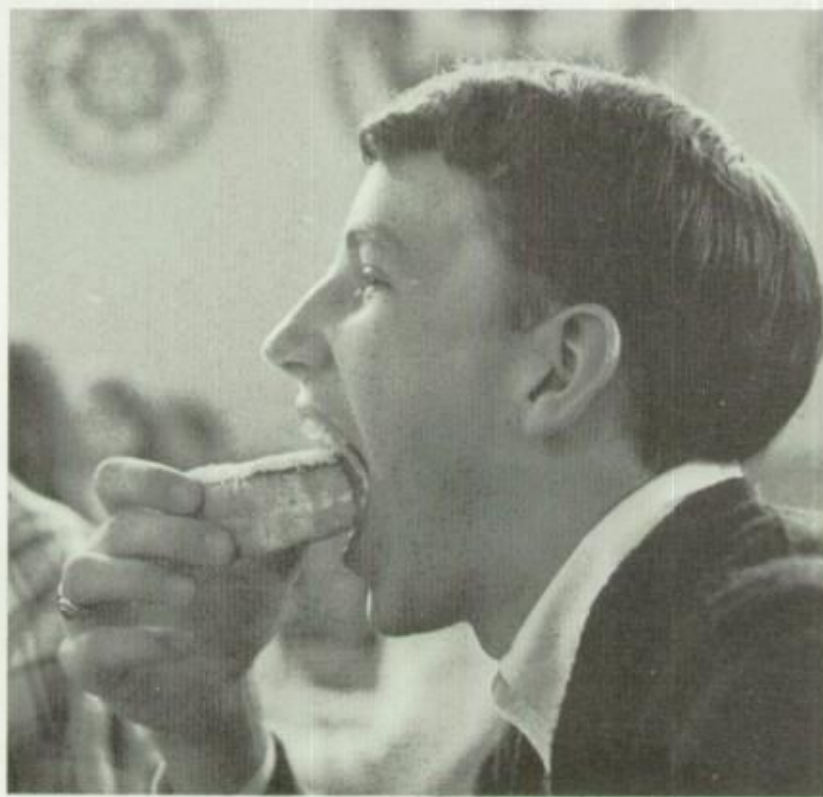

I saw America the first time the 11th of August. It was very foggy, so I did not get to see very much of the beautiful country. But later, I learned to know it better.

I come from the country in Norway, so Schwenksville is almost as home to me. During my stay here, I am staying with the Tallmans. When I go back to Norway, I have two more years in school. I have mathematics as my main subject. School here is a little different from what I am used to, but I like it this way.

Communication is the key to a beneficial government. Thus, without people, there can exist no such organization. But what does a government do other than communicate with the citizens it represents? Useful systems act as advisors and protectors. They pass legislation for the welfare of the individual after their needs have been expressed. This year's Student Council has protected, advised, and met the needs of those students who were aware of the responsibilities and power this organization holds.

Band is an ideal organization because anyone who is interested and willing to work and make sacrifices can get involved. This year the band front and the band were truly great. Marching in parades and at football games, the color guard carried large blue and white flags, and the honor guard displayed sabers and rifles while the band played crisp, sparkling tunes. The school is justifiably proud of its band, which wouldn't be what it is without the individual drive of each member and the superb leadership of Mr. Benigno.

Although today's May Day is a substitute for Schwenksville's nonexistent track team, earlier years brought fame to these star athletes.

It almost seemed as though the class of '67 would miss May Day. The preceding day we had flame-proofed our prom decorations and had laid them out on the gym floor to dry. May Day dawned and upon us came the realization that the gym floor had turned blue. Facing the problem objectively, we took the only possible course of action — we scrubbed. Luckily, most of us managed to get out to the athletic field in time to see Ulla Linden, our very popular foreign exchange student, crowned Queen of the Day. The band played, the sun shone, and soft pretzels circulated as we watched and took part in various tests of physical prowess. May Day 1966 drew to a close as a highly memorable occasion for winners, losers, and spectators alike.

queen for a day

Faced with the remembrances of last year's poorly attended dances, the Student Council livened this year's first dance with music by the "Traditions." Decorations were unneeded as the Homecoming Queen, Freddi Reifsneider, and her court: Maxine Miller, Sharon Murray, Linda Hefner, and Sandy Stinger, filled the gym with a warm satisfying atmosphere.

practice... music... district band

On February 23-25, 1967, our school and community had the pleasure of hosting the Upper Southeastern District Band. This being one of the largest projects our school has ever undertaken, we were pleased and complimented by its great success in Schwenksville.

The district band had the honor of having Mr. Paul E. Carson of West Chester State College as its guest conductor.

Many hectic days were spent in preparation for the big event which would not have been possible without the guidance of Mr. Benigno and the support and aid of the recently organized "Band Boosters." The area residents also helped by opening their homes to the traveling band members for the duration of their visit.

On Friday and Saturday nights, the hills came alive with the sound of music as the concerts broke all previous attendance records with a total audience of over 1600 people. The music was complemented by the splendor of the sight on stage — 146 musicians dressed in their many-hued school uniforms.

Saturday night, after a fine banquet and final performance, our tired visitors left for their homes with a hearty "farewell" from all of us.

Pep, steam . . . A cheer for Schwenksville's team!

Flanked by a roaring crowd and an enthusiastic band, our '66 football squad fought hard to achieve a league record of 2 wins and 4 losses — an improvement over the past several years. Sporting the league's fastest offensive line and the league's best punter in Chuck Snyder, the team definitely exhibited qualities of which to be proud. Place kicking and top scoring by Al Knappenberger, Chas Weygand, Bruce Wagner, and Stan Trump also added to the excitement of the season.

Led by seniors Barry Gaugler, Bruce Wagner, Charlie Williams, Joe Maziarz, Dave Hetrick, Art Schreiner, and Albert Witmayer, the team was aided by the addition of the I-formation to their list of plays. The great efforts of this year's squad have left us confident that with continued school support the Bluebirds will fly on to a bigger and better tomorrow.

Our guests — the Whiz Kids

a night with the pros

At least 800 people crowded the school gym on February 17, 1967, to witness the faculty's most ambitious project of the year. The Phillies Whiz Kids were scheduled to play the alumni and teachers in a rousing game of basketball. Advance ticket sales had been so successful that no tickets were to be had by anyone after February 15th. People hanging from the rafters, sandwiched into the bleachers, and standing at the entrances watched as the Phillies won a narrow victory, 94-87.

To calm everyone after the exciting night, a record hop was held.

The purpose of the annual Student-Faculty Fun Night is to raise money for the Faculty's Student Scholarship Fund, and in 1967 the affair was an overwhelming success.

lady birds swing

This year, in the best tradition of S. H. S., our varsity hockey team competed with great vigor and vitality. Thanks should be given to their coach, Mrs. Marion Scullin, and also to their co-captains Freddi Reifsneider and Maxine Miller. The result of the season was a 1-1-1 record, with Linda Boyer scoring the five winning goals in the game against Daniel Boone. Without a doubt, the future hockey season will be equally as interesting and exciting.

Our J. V. hockey team, assisted by Mrs. Scullin and Mrs. Pachard certainly tried their best to achieve success. Co-captains of this year's team were Bertha Townsend and Annie Reifsneider, who led the J. V. to a 1-2-0 record. In the victorious game against Daniel Boone, Louise Freier was responsible for scoring both goals. Next year's J. V. hockey team should prove to be fairly good because of the quality of the returning players.

Temperamental weather was fingered as the culprit responsible for the slow start of this year's baseball team. Hampered by a lack of practices, courtesy of a long, soggy spring, the boys lost their early games with Boyertown and St. Pius by several runs.

Fortunately, a sizeable number of last year's starting players were able to return to the team. Tom Dice, Glenn Ickes, Joe junior year

Residing at S.H.S. for the eleventh year, these industrious students have proven themselves to be both skilled and able—skilled in the building of class organization and initiative, and able to meet the challenges of tomorrow.

seniors

Shy and bewildered, we took our first steps into Junior High School with our goals stretching far ahead. Our hopes for the future were symbolized by a wishing well as the center of our first class dance, while our entry in the talent assembly, "The Lion Sleeps Tonight," gave us our first strong foothold in school activities.

journey to a senior year

Recognized for the first time as a full-fledged class, we elected our Freshmen class officers. Under their leadership, we ran a highly profitable candy sale. Eligible at last to participate in senior high activities, we were well represented in all areas.

As sophomores, we received our long awaited class rings. All senior high students were invited to our class dance, "The Wonders of Noel," and all in attendance enthusiastically greeted our honored visitor from the North Pole. Every one of us watched with pride as the first members of our class were inducted into the National Honor Society.

In eighth grade, with ever growing confidence, we arrived at our second class dance dressed as flappers in raccoon coats. Upperclassmen peering through the windows, were afforded unexpected entertainment by our original versions of the Charleston.

Theoretically, we were second-in-command as Juniors. Seven more members of our class were added to the ever-growing ranks of our National Honor Society. We were now in the big leagues in sports. Our girls' hockey and basketball teams added two trophies to our showcase, encouraged by the new-found enthusiasm extended to all of our teams. "Haystack Hootenanny," featuring the "Berkleys," was presented as our Junior Dance.

Prom Queen, Kathy Hefner honors Jim Weaver with a dance.

Majesty of ancient Rome — Horti Augustus — our Junior Prom.

With the profits from this dance and our successful candy sale, we financed our Junior-Senior Prom, "Horti Augustus." (Gardens of Augustus) Much confusion and hard work resulted in our almost professional comedy, "The Annual Junior Assembly." Following this performance, we roamed the halls of school dressed in multi-colored anklets, musty suits, and the largest number of pig-tails seen in this area since our grade-school days.

As the year drew to a close, we bid farewell to the seniors in a special assembly, during which we offered a lovely memory garland.

In September we presented a united front and capable leadership to the student body. We met our new foreign exchange student and selected our final class officers: Nancy Beltz, vice-president; Jim Weaver, president; Freddi Reifsnnyder, secretary; Trina Clemmer, treasurer.

Music flowed as we featured a combo at our senior dance and, in the Christmas spirit, spent an evening caroling for our friends and neighbors. Various other activities found seniors in enthusiastic participation. Co-operation in the forum assembly and competition in our mid-winter paper airplane contest also added a touch of the "educational." A full grown Bluebird and an artistic poster represented our contribution toward promoting school spirit at the CT-Schwenksville basketball game.

You can always tell a senior before a forum assembly — he's well prepared!

As seniors, we, of course, followed in the steps of popular tradition in producing a class play. Directed most effectively by Mrs. Richards and student director Jan Fosbenner, "Two's a Crowd" was a success which rivaled professional productions. Involvement was vigorous as the joint efforts of the make-up, costume, and prop committees combined with those of the directors and actors.

The following synopsis of the play is provided for those who did not see it, and those of us who wish to remember it!

Another patient suggestion from Mrs. Richards.

After Mrs. Maxwell's departure for an unexplained trip, her children, Patricia, Dorothy and Richard, decide to ease the family financial situation by renting rooms to tourists. Within a few hours, the house is filled with quite an unusual assortment of guests. Mamie Beggs, the maid and amateur detective, refuses to become involved, but, in the end, involves everyone by coming down with a case of measles — quarantining the entire household for two weeks.

Mamie is sure that the mysterious Wilson family has criminal instincts until Willie Peabody, who continually rings out a devoted "But I'll do anything for you, Pat," discovers the key to the Wilson mystery. A happy ending seems apparent when the doctor tells Mamie that she merely had a strawberry rash, until further inspection produces evidence that Annabelle Wilson really does come down with the measles.

Adding spirit to math class as "Maisy"—a girl with a cheerful "Hi" for all.

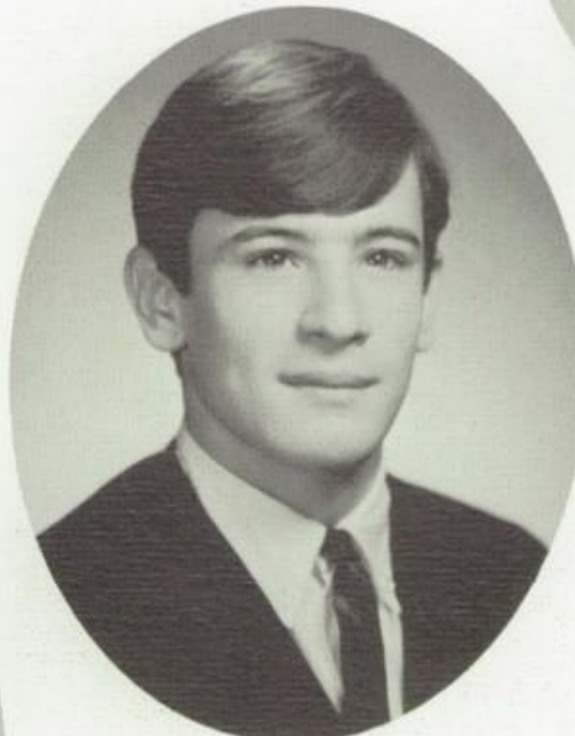

Linda Ellen Clair Hefner

"Smooch"

"When water chokes you, what are you to drink to wash it down?"

No paper tiger with a hockey stick, she represents the naive wit of the class.

David John Hetrick

"Dave"

"A fine head of hair adds beauty to a good face, and terror to an ugly one."

Conservative politician whose guitar and folk music are key elements of his "enlightened" outlook.

Barbara Jane High

"Barb"

"Quiet as a churchmouse."

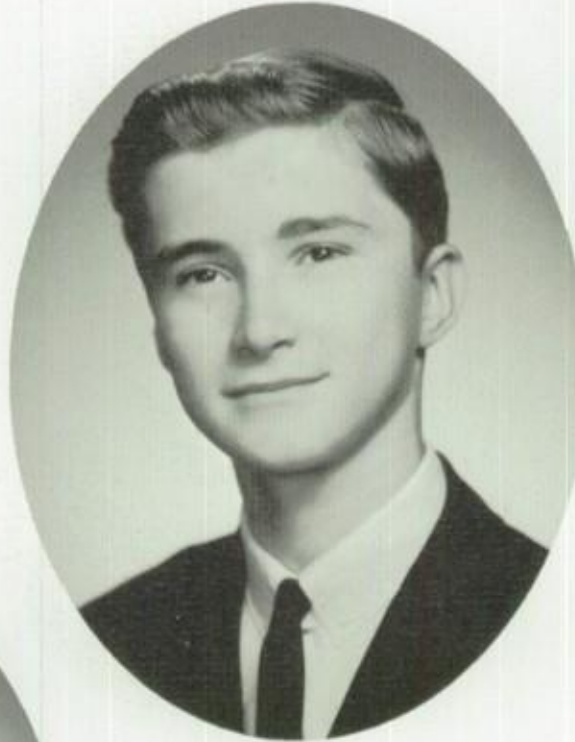

A conscientious student who exerts a calming influence by her peaceful approach to life.

Anne Grethe Hove

"What I want is not to possess religion, but to have a religion that possesses me."

From Norway's mystic Midnight Sun, a sweet ray of light for our senior year.

"Anne"

Glenn Thomas Ickes

"A stout heart breaks bad luck."

A fellow aptly suited for both claiming second base and dribbling toward a basket.

"Glenn"

David Brian Johnson

"It's better to be faithful than famous."

A firm advocate of Mrs. Smith's Bakery and good hunting trips.

"Dave"

Lillian Esther Keely

"It's not strength, but art that wins the prize."

Bulletin boards and posters adorning the school confirm her talents in art.

"Lily"

Linda Harley Kehs

"Of the works of His hand, by sea or land, the horse may at least rank second."

The pep pill to gym class who gets her energy from carrying movie projectors.

"Linda"

David Rodney Kocher

"Dave"

"Four hostile newspapers are more to be feared than a thousand bayonets—and a newspaperboy more than both."

Anyone with sense stands clear of this wild newspaperboy on a Honda.

John Bruce Kocher

"John"

"Skill is a joy to man."

An S.H.S. delegate to the tech school with a love for anything with a motor.

Dennis Robert Kolb

"Dennis"

"If he'll make a friendship, he'll perform it to the last action."

Makes an ever-faithful friend and an energetic champ at intramurals.

Richard Dale Landis

"Rich"

"A dwarf on a giant's shoulder sees farther of the two."

An interest in photography supplements his scholastic life.

Diana Marie LaRose

"Diana"

"Happiness seems made to be shared."

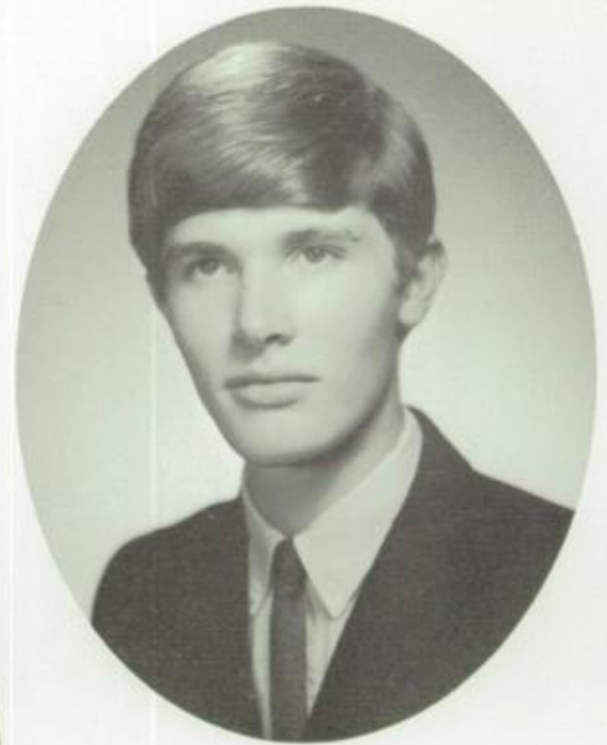

Our natural-curl girl who fills our classes with her wit and light sarcasm.

George William Levy

"George"

"Music is nothing else but wild sounds, civilized into time and tune."

Our American version of the English mod, whose spare time is taken by strumming and daubing.

Terry Alan Long

"Terry"

"Honest fame awaits the honest."

The putting green is never the same after the passage of this noiseless sportsman.

Ronald Roy Manns

"Ron"

"Let us seek bread through the plow."

An able protector of life and limb through his diligence on the Safety Patrol.

Joseph Stanley Maziarz

"Joe"

"Ambition is the mind's immodesty."

Quiet Joe, shows his athletic prowess as a three-letter man at S.H.S.

Doddydell Patricia Mendez

"Doddy"

"To climb steep hills requires slow pace at first."

Gym class is against the religion of this veteran soprano and avid swimmer.

Maxine Stacelene Miller

"Max"

"Her happiness consists in activity; it is a running stream and not a stagnant pool."

Our cute, wacky crippler of hockey and basketball teams, who claims she is shy but forces herself to be an extrovert.

Martha Ann Morgan

"Mart"

"Even shadows have their shadows too."

Constant supporter of Pep Club and intramurals in an effort to avert boredom.

Carl Russell Moser

"Mose"

"I am a man, and whatever concerns humanity is of interest to me."

The guiding light of our sales campaigns, with a passion for folk songs and chasing golf balls.

Sharon Lee Murray

"Murph"

"Her cup runneth over with Coca-Cola."

Our compact personality kid who has a flashy smile and a whizzing baton on the football field.

James Jay Musselman

"Jimmy"

"He who walks honestly, walks securely."

Our latter-day Hercules, powered by trusty Ford with a temperamental nature.

Carol Anne Myers

"Politeness is to say the kindest thing in the kindest way."

Gray skies flee this eternal optimist with an ever-ready smile.

"Carol"

Susan Christine Rau

"You came late, yet you came."

Joined us in our senior year, slightly late, but still in time to graduate.

"Sue"

Gwendolyn Adele Ray

"A great artist can paint a great picture on a small canvas."

A maestro with a paintbrush, whose vibrant alto tones lend backbone to the Chorus.

"Gwen"

Fredadelle May Reifsneider

"Freddie"

"The innocent are gay."

A cute, vivacious, dark-eyed bundle of energy with a quick smile and a good word for everyone. Be nice!

Elizabeth Ann Rubendall

"Her rare smile is sweet with certainties."

Our natural (?) many-shaded blonde of the hockey field who made a cute, unsmiling addition to our twirling squad this year.

"Betsy"

Alexander Ruchko

"Alex"

"There is pleasure hunting for something in the human mind."

His special ability in electronics makes him the Mr. Wizard of science projects.

William Paul Sacks

"Paul"

"His friendship lightens everyone's burdens."

An honest counselor and true friend owing to his fine, frank nature.

Donna Rae Sautter

"Sutts"

"The sincere heart doth win the love of all."

"Go, St. Joe!" "The Hawk will never die!" Our Mattie Guokas of the basketball team who is always prepared to tell about Kyutie Boie.

Joanne Marie Schirk

"Joanne"

"A kind heart loseth nought at last."

Sweet and sincere is the real pusher in Pep Club.

Arthur Joseph Schreiner

"Art"

"That load becomes light which is cheerfully borne."

A sparkplug recently installed to add spirit to our class.

Peter Lee Schultz

"It is well for one to know more than he says."

His extra-curricular time is well-filled by an advocacy of hunting.

"Pete"

Sandra Lou Sell

"Composes poetry of the foot."

Always where the action is, even though a trick knee tries to keep her down.

"Groover"

Joseph William Shreves

"Thou shouldst eat to live, not live to eat."

His cheerful smile and good nature see him through every trying day.

"Joe"

Linda Diane Smith

"A little nonsense now and then, is relished by the best of men."

Eases tension many a time with a laugh of joy or relief.

"Lyn"

Nancy Mae Smith

"Variety is the spice of life."

A girl with the spirit of a real go-getter, showing talent in the form of folk-singing and dancing.

"Nancy"

Rose Mary Smith

"Rose"

"Studies serve for delight, for ornament, and for ability."

Ambitious in every endeavor, yet seasoned with pleasant modesty.

Sarah Edith Spatz

"Sally"

"Remember your Creator in the days of your youth."

Keeps her grades and spirit high even though her thoughts are often 500 miles away.

Jack Steinman

"Jack"

"Rich with all the spoils of nature."

Our "sawed-off Dutchman" whose engaging manner wins many allies.

Sandra Jo Stinger

"Sam"

"No man is happy who does not think himself so."

Our smiling, volatile "Get that ball and take it away" girl. Keep 'em cheering, Sam.

Joann Marie Swymelar

"Jo"

"In quietness and confidence shall be your strength."

Lends to the spirit of Pep Club with her steady, cheerful enthusiasm.

Linda Marie Tallman

"Inside, outside, upside, downside."

Scampers ever to and fro, taking part in numerous activities and cheering her schoolmates on to victory.

"Lyn"

Bertha Jean Townsend

"Bert"

"A good laugh is sunshine."

Hockey team rookie whose feelings are well-conveyed by her brilliantly expressive eyes.

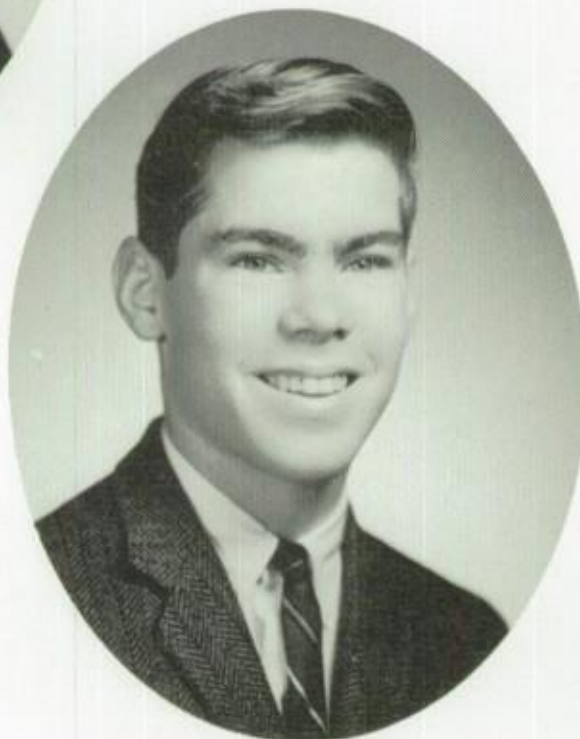

Harry Sherman Treadway

"Never shake thy gory locks at me."

Characterized by his winning smile, is this ever-fearless mechanical whiz.

"Harry"

William Robert Vincent

"Bam"

"The Great White Hunter always gets his game."

One small member of our class who is big on hunting and trapping.

Kerri Garnette Wadlinger

"Softly speak and sweetly smile."

Spirited, dark-eyed, and filled with pep, our enthusiastic "Wilt" of the basketball team.

"Kerri"

Bruce Herman Wagner

"Bruce"

"The history of every individual should be a Bible."

Talented member of Forum who doesn't hesitate in voicing his opinion. Believes everyone should possess a megaphone.

James Andrew Weaver

"Jimmi"

"The superior man is he who develops in harmonious proportions, his moral, intellectual, and physical nature."

His unique style of handwriting makes this class leader turn to excellence in numbers.

Charles Edward Williams

"Willie"

"He does not only find the jest, but the laugh, too."

Ultra-possessive about his car, but freely generous with his candid humor.

Albert Frederick Witmayer

"Oski"

"Wit is the salt of conversation."

Smiling through every football tackle, the all-American of his junior year in Germany.

Margaret Ferroll Wrigley

"Peggy"

"There are charms made only for distant admiration."

On bad terms with Uncle Sam and takes it out on the typewriter.
